The men at present are simply lying on their arms, ready to fight when something new makes it necessary. The danger lies in the fact that beneath the surface quiet there is a smouldering fire which may burst into flame at any moment.

The danger is increased by the fact that the men seem to be drifting away from their leaders. This was shown by the failure of yesterday's mass-meeting to adopt the suggestion of the leaders that the Sheriff be permitted to bring his deputies in, and by the action of some workmen who constituted themselve a committee to bounce newspaper

HARRISBURG, July 9.—A delegation of members of the Amaigamated Association, repre-senting the men locked out of Carnegie's milis at Homestead, had a conference with Gov. Pattison last night with a view to arriving at a peaceful solution of the trouble at the mills.

The delegation consisted of Hugh O'Don-nell, the labor leader; ex-Representative Cox, J. H. Williams, Dr. John Purwen and G. W. Sarver. The conference did not break up until midnight. It was conducted behind closed doors. Attorney-General Heasel was imitted to it, and after it had ended gave the substance of the talk to the newspaper reporters.

Ex-Representative Cox was the principal spokesman for the Committee. He said that the Carnegie works were then in the possession of their owners, whose watchmen were on guard.

There had been no destruction of property he said, and in behalf of the citizens of Homestead he made the pledge that there should be none. If the Sheriff desired to take possession he could do so. Order and peace
